

SIX MILLIONS FOR A CAPITOL

Legislative Committee Agreed On Six Hundred Thousand Dollars A Year Appropriation.

THE CIGARETTE BILL DOOMED NOW

Bill To Prevent Students From Voting In Madison Is Up—Dietz Dam Investigation Is Declared Lost In Assembly.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., May 22.—The bill to appropriate $600,000 annually for nine years making a total of $5,400,000 with the money appropriated two years ago for the new capitol has the approval of the joint committee on claims and was favorably reported this morning.
The senate committee on state affairs reported for killing the assembly bill to prohibit the smoking of cigarettes in public places.
A bill to prevent students from voting at Madison was advanced in the assembly.
Assemblyman Roethe proposes in a resolution looking toward a constitutional amendment to limit legislative sessions to 100 days. The present session has dragged along for 130 days and will take another month.
The social democratic resolution to have a legislative investigation of the Dietz Cameron dam matter was killed by the assembly by a vote of 43 to 23 after Assemblyman Weber had made a speech in its favor and reading a letter from "Outlaw" Dietz inviting an investigation.
Assemblyman Porter introduced a bill to tax automobiles, because, he declares, they now practically all escape taxation.

COURT OF APPEALS REVERSED DECISION

By This Finding All Present Officers of Louisville Are Ousted from Office.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Frankfort, Ky., May 22.—The court of appeals today handed down an opinion in the contested election cases from the city of Louisville and Jefferson county, upholding the contention of the fusionists and declaring the election void, thus reversing the decision of the Jefferson circuit court. The decision was in effect the turning out of all officials in Louisville and Jefferson county.

URGE ROOSEVELT TO AID IN MOYER CASE

Switchmen's Union Deplore Kidnaping of Famous Idaho Prisoners at Meeting.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Detroit, Mich., May 22.—At the biennial convention of the Switchmen's Union of North America, now in session here, a resolution was unanimously adopted today protesting against the "kidnaping" of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, and requesting President Roosevelt to use all legitimate means in his power to secure a reversal of the recent decision "legalizing" kidnaping.

CLEVER SWINDLERS WORK IS CONFUSING

Sold House That Did Not Belong to Him—Buyers Sued When They Remove It.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chippewa Falls, Wis., May 22.—W. L. Tilton decided today to appeal the case against John and Eugene Benson asking for $150 for carrying Tilton's house from his farm without the permission of Tilton. He got a verdict of $25 in the municipal court and appealed the case and got $10 in the circuit court. He may go to the federal supreme court. The Bensons "bought" the house from a swindler.

MATERIAL FOR NEW YARD HAS ARRIVED

Car Unloaded Yesterday Afternoon—Material Track Will Be Laid Immediately.
Seven cars of material for the new yard arrived in Janesville yesterday and more came today. Some of the material was unloaded yesterday and the work was continued today. Among the company's first operations will be the laying of the double track to a point five miles south of the city and a material track between two and three thousand feet in length. Temporary buildings for the accommodations of tools, etc., will be erected forthwith.

DIETZ POSSE HAS ALL OLD MEN IN IT

Much Amusement Over Latest Choice of the Sheriff For Expedition Against Cameron Dam.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rice Lake, Wis., May 22.—Much amusement was caused here by the posse from Hayward to get Dietz. It is said all whom the sheriff subpoenaed are very old men.

Indiana Eagles in Session
South Bend, Ind., May 22.—The rapid growth of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Indiana was evidenced by the large attendance at the opening here today of the annual convention of the state organization. President Carl E. Wood of Seymour called the gathering to order this afternoon. Business of a routine character occupied the afternoon and tonight the delegates will banquet at the Oliver House. The convention will continue over tomorrow. The reports of State Secretary Charles A. Ristgen of Warsaw, and of the other officers are of the most satisfactory character.

ARCHITECT VISITS JEFFERSON SCHOOL

Question of Remodeling Structure or Erecting Entire New Building Will Be Decided.
Architect Chandler of Racine is inspecting the Jefferson school building in the third ward today to advise the board of education on the proposition of remodeling the structure at a cost of about $25,000. If he believes the plan feasible an appropriation for the amount stated will be asked from the council. If he taboos the plan it is possible that the board will ask the city fathers to erect a new building. Mr. Chandler was accompanied on his visit by Superintendent H. C. Buell, President of the Board S. B. Buckmaster, Clerk S. C. Burnham and Members Sam Smith, J. M. Thayer and James Shearer.

Vacation time presents such lovely vision to the school boy about now.

BAPTISTS VISITING JAMESTOWN "EXPO"

United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba and Porto Rico Represented at Convention.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Norfolk, Va., May 22.—The general convention of the Baptists of North America, including the denomination in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba and Porto Rico, met today in Convention hall at the Jamestown exposition. As the convention represents, in a way, the coming together again of Northern and Southern Baptists, which have been working independently for about fifty years, more than ordinary significance is attached to the proceedings. At the opening session this afternoon eight officials of missionary organizations spoke on the noteworthy event of mission work during the past two years. During the convention, which is to continue over tomorrow, there will be an open parliament for the discussion of such questions as may be recommended by the various committees in charge. Among such matters it is expected that there will be considered an invitation to the World Baptist Alliance to hold its meeting in the United States in 1910, and the convention is also expected to consider the Baptist Brotherhood, child labor, uniform divorce laws, and possibly international arbitration.

TWO STATE BANKERS' ASSOCIATIONS MEET

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Kansas City, Mo., May 22.—Leading bankers from all parts of the state faced President W. C. Harris of Fulton when he called to order the seventeenth annual meeting of Missouri Bankers' association in the assembly room of the Midland hotel this morning. Following an invocation by Rev. Robert Talbot there were welcoming addresses by Mayor Beardsley and others and a response for the visitors by Brookings Jones of St. Louis. President Harris delivered his annual reports and there were reports from the other officers of the association. The afternoon program included addresses on banking topics from James T. Young of the Wharton School of Finance, Oscar Wells of Fort Worth, Texas, L. A. Goddard of Chicago, and "Private" John M. Allen of Tupelo, Miss. Tomorrow the association will be addressed by Charles H. Treat, treasurer of the United States, and E. L. Copeland of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad.

North Carolina Bankers
Winston-Salem, N. C., May 22.—Page after page of the register at the Hotel Zimendorff filled today with the names of prominent financiers come to attend the eleventh annual meeting of the North Carolina Bankers' association. The formal opening takes place this evening and the business sessions will occupy Thursday and Friday. The program for the initial session this evening is as follows: Call to order by President J. F. Willy of Durham; Invocation, Rt. Rev. Edward Ronithaler, D. D.; address of welcome on behalf of Winston-Salem bankers, Col. William A. Blair; address of welcome on behalf of the board of trade, Hon. Clement Manly; response, Col. William H. S. Burgwyn of Weldon; entertainment by Salem Boys band.

MOULDERS DISCUSS INCREASE IN DUES

Large Numbers of Strikes Last Year Resulted in Several Extra Levies.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Philadelphia, Pa., May 22.—The annual convention of the International Union of Iron Molders and Coronamakers opened in this city today, with headquarters at the Continental hotel. The principal business before the convention is the question of an increase in the dues of the organization. Last year on account of the many strikes it was found necessary to levy a number of extra assessments. If the dues are increased, as seems probable, a sinking fund will be established and the extra assessments will be abolished.

SCHOOL CHILDREN DONATE TO PEARY

Collections Taken Through Oregon to Add to Funds for Polar Expedition.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Portland, Ore., May 22.—This was "Peary Day" in the public schools throughout Oregon, small contributions being taken up among the pupils in aid of the fund necessary for the starting of another expedition to the north pole by Commander Robert E. Peary. It is expected that about $5,000 will be realized in this state toward the $60,000 necessary for the expedition.

WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS SUCCEED IN FINLAND

Nineteen of the Hundred and Ninety-nine Members of New Legislature and from Gentler Sex.
Helsingfors, May 22.—The assembling and organization of the new Finnish legislature here today marks perhaps the most advanced step yet recorded in the movement for the political emancipation of women. The legislature is the first national body of lawmakers containing women as representatives and on an absolute and perfect equality with men. Of the 199 members 19 are women. Foremost among the women members is the Baroness Alexandra Grippenberg, who is well known in England, America and elsewhere for her activity in behalf of woman suffrage. At the opening of the legislature today the Baroness received and read messages of congratulation from equal rights leaders throughout the world.

ONE OF THE HEIRS OF NEWELL ESTATE

A Niece of A. H. Sheldon One of the Beneficiaries of Mrs. Francis Newell.
Miss Georgiana Sheldon of Madison, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Sheldon of this city, was a beneficiary to the sum of five thousand dollars under the will of the late Mrs. Francis C. Newell of Kenosha. Miss Sheldon and a daughter of Mrs. Newell are great friends and have spent some time together in Europe. Miss Sheldon is now abroad spending most of her time in Italy, where she conducts a young ladies' school. She is expected home for the summer.

PRESBYTERIANS OF THE REFORM STRIKE

General Synod of North American Church Will Open Session in Cedarville, Ohio, Tonight.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Cedarville, O., May 22.—Delegates are here from Vermont to California for the annual session of the general synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church in North America, which will be opened this evening with a sermon by the retiring moderator, Prof. James Y. Boice, D. D., of Philadelphia. The session of the general synod will continue about a week, with meetings also of the Woman's Missionary society and the Young People's union. A professor to fill the vacancy in the theological seminary will likely be elected and other matters of vital interest to the church will be considered.
United Presbyterian Assembly.
Denver, Colo., May 22.—The annual session of the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church, met in Denver today and was opened with a sermon by the retiring moderator, the Rev. Dr. J. K. McClurkin of Pittsburgh. The assembly this year promises to be of more than ordinary interest as much important work is to be transacted. The Rev. Dr. H. H. Bell of San Francisco probably will be chosen moderator. A spirited though good natured contest is on for the secretaryship of the board of home missions, made vacant by the death of Dr. Alexander Gilchrist. Those whose names are most prominently mentioned in connection with the place are the Rev. R. A. Hutchinson of Altoona, Pa., the Rev. G. E. Haws of Braddock, Pa., and the Rev. A. F. Kirkpatrick of Tacoma.

UP GOES WHEAT WITH RUSH AT START OF THE MARKET

Heavy Buying In Liverpool Influences Prices In The Chicago Wheat Pit This Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, May 22.—Wheat set a new high record for the crop today. July advanced to $1.02 1/2, Sept. to $1.04 1/2, and Dec. to $1.05 1/2. The continued absence of rain in Kansas, coupled with the advance in Liverpool, were factors in the higher prices.
Failure in New York.
New York, May 22.—The failure of E. B. Havens & Company, a member of the stock exchange, was announced today. The firm is not prominent. Market Hasty.
Another heavy wave of liquidation in the stock market today sent stocks tumbling from one to three points. The market began to turn after the first hour, when a subsidence of selling was observed, but remained feverish and excited on a rally.

TRAIN WRECKERS THAT DO NOT HESITATE AT LIVES

Wreck Of Passenger Train In The West Shows Cold Blooded Motive Behind It.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Los Angeles, Cal., May 22.—The Southern Pacific coast line limited, due here at nine, last night, was wrecked at West Glendale, ten miles north of here early today. The wreck was the deliberate work of train wreckers. One man was killed, twenty-two injured, and three probably fatally. At a point on the trestle over Arroyo Seco, the fish plates and bolts of two connecting rails on the south-bound track had been removed and in the apertures when the bolts were taken, strands of heavy wire were fastened at the end of each rail. It is evident some person was hidden on the hillside close to the trestle and had pulled the wire as the train approached and spread the rails outward toward the edge of the trestle.

TO DISCUSS ARBITRATION; FORGET WAR AND PEACE

Lake Mohonk Conference Opened This Morning—Jurists, Diplomats, Educators And Writers Speak.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 22.—Several hundred men of national or international reputation as jurists, writers, diplomats and educators assembled here today to take part in the thirteenth annual meeting of the Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration. The conference this year, coming as it does on the eve of the international peace conference to be held at The Hague next month, promises to be of more than ordinary interest.
Following the precedent established by its former sessions the conference will discuss neither peace nor war, but will confine itself to the general subjects of arbitration treaties, an international court of arbitration, and the proposed establishment of an international congress with advisory powers. The program gives prominence to discussion of the coming Hague conference and to consideration of America's interest in international arbitration. The relation of colleges and universities to the arbitration movement will be discussed, and one session will be given to delegates from chambers of commerce and boards of trade representing all parts of the United States.
The session was opened this morning with an address by Albert K. Smiley, the founder and host of the conference. President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university presided and other speakers heard were Benjamin F. Trueblood, secretary of the American Peace society, and Congressman Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, president of the American group of the Interparliamentary Union.
The coming Hague conference is to be discussed tonight, with Andrew D. White, former ambassador to Germany and to Russia, Chief Justice Simon E. Baldwin of the Connecticut supreme court, Bartlett Trapp, former ambassador to Austria, and Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, former minister to Spain, as the chief speakers. Prominent among those scheduled to speak at the sessions tomorrow and Friday are Elmer E. Brown, United States commissioner of education; Andrew S. Draper, New York state commissioner of education; President Charles F. Thwing, of Western Reserve university; President E. D. Warfield of Lafayette college, Prof. M. Stalker of the University of Iowa, Prof. Elbert Russell of Earlham college, Senor Enrique C. Creel, Mexican ambassador to the United States; Senor Don Ignacio Calderon, Bolivian minister to the United States; John B. Evans, director of the International Bureau of American Republics; Francis B. Loomis, former minister to Venezuela, and President Elliot of Harvard university.

VETERANS OF CIVIL WAR HOLD REUNIONS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Moberly, Mo., May 22.—The twenty-sixth annual encampment of the G. A. R. Department of Missouri, met here today and was called to order by Balloran's theatre at 10 o'clock this morning. Veterans from all over the state are in attendance, together with many members of the W. R. C., the Ladies of the G. A. R. and other auxiliary bodies. The encampment will continue over tomorrow. Major Thomas D. Kimball of St. Louis is being boomed for the office of department commander.
Oklahoma G. A. R.
Enid, Okla., May 22.—Enid is garbed in the national colors in honor of the Grand Army veterans, whose sixteenth annual encampment, Department of Oklahoma, opened here today. The attendance is increased by the presence of many members of the Woman's Relief corps and other affiliated bodies holding their annual meetings in conjunction with that of the veterans. A three days' program with the usual parade, business sessions and camp fires has been arranged for the encampment.
Reunion in Indiana
Fort Wayne, Ind., May 22.—Regular and special trains brought hundreds of visitors into this city this morning for the 28th annual encampment of the Indiana G. A. R. and the annual meetings of the auxiliary organizations. Today was given over to the reception of the visitors and to meetings of the council of administration to wind up the business of the year and arrange the details of the encampment program. Fifty thousand visitors are expected tomorrow, which will be the big day of the encampment. The business sessions will be held in the morning and the big parade will take place in the afternoon and will be reviewed by Commander-in-Chief R. B. Brown and staff. Interesting contests are on for the various officers of the several organizations and for the honor of entertaining the reunion next year.

CAJOLED THE GROOM AND THEN LOST HIM

Seventeen-Year-Old Husband Swears His Bride Enticed Him Into Marrying Her.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Monominee, Mich., May 22.—Banker Donald Raum of New London, and his seventeen-year-old son, both swore to an affidavit this morning that young Raum's girl bride had cajoled the boy into the elopement and marriage which took place here last Thanksgiving day. The girl bride is only sixteen and both went to the same school. After the marriage had been performed the banker, who is wealthy and a big republican leader, raced here but it was too late. He took his son forcibly home. He now sued to annul the marriage. The marriage was declared illegal.

RAISED $12.31 FOR STARVING RUSSIANS

Miss Ella Duffey's Glas in the Town of La Prairie. Generously Responded to the Call for Aid.

An appeal for the starving Russians which was published in the Gazette has met a generous response in La Prairie. On Friday evening, May 17, a social was held for the purpose of extending some aid to the famished millions. After a short program and the serving of ice cream and cake, a collection of $12.31 was taken up. The following letter has been received at the Gazette's office:

Editor Janesville Gazette.
 Dear Sir: In response to the appeal for Russia, in your editorial of May 10, I brought the subject before my Sunday school class and they were anxious to help.
 We held a social and raised $12.31 and hope you can forward it at once. I will send you a notice of it, which I would like to have appear in the La Prairie Gazette.
 Very sincerely,
 Ella Duffey.

HOME-MADE CATSUP TALK

America May Yet Furnish the World with the Hops for Its Beers—Interesting Data.

(Special Correspondence.)
 Washington, D. C., May 22.—All former controversies over "pure food" promise to be eclipsed by the one scheduled in connection with the use of chemical preservatives in pickles, ketchup, jams, preserves and other table delicacies. For a long time the attention of pure food experts has been devoted to the whiskey question which was settled by the famous decision that what is whiskey is whiskey and what is not is something else. That principally affected the male population. Now a problem confronts the National Food commission which is likely to get them into hot water for it intimately concerns the household and the table. Let them beware of the wrath of the energetic and devoted housewife.

All forms of vengeance male by comparison. Politicians may flatter themselves that in tardily enacting a pure food law they have evidenced their manhood and responded to the protective instinct. Nothing of the kind. It was Mrs. A. or Mrs. B. who aroused their somnolent spouses to action. Having settled the leading question of "What is whiskey?" we are now turning to a scarcely secondary consideration of the use of preservatives in foods entering into interstate commerce. Some years ago, when the agitation for a national pure food law was yet in its infancy, certain unscrupulous canning and preserving factories explained why it was essential that benzoate of soda should be used in the manufacture of ketchup, why it was necessary to put any seed in "pure raspberry jam" why jellies should be composed of glucose, flavored by coal tar extract. Later arguments were presented to the house and senate committees to prove that congressional action looking toward purity in food would deprive the "poor workingman" of table delicacies to which he was accustomed but which his limited purse would not permit him to purchase unless adulterated. Dr. Wiley, the chemist so closely associated with pure food agitation, confessed his inability to understand why tomatoes, pickles, preserves, ketchup, etc., could not be manufactured commercially according to the formulae employed by our mothers and grandmothers. Although not commercially inclined, they put up, stuff to last and no temporary of mine blessed with such a provider, fails to remember the stolen hours in the jam-closet—nor the pure substance to "discover." In view of the somewhat exorbitant demand that the use of a limited amount of benzoate of soda and other chemical preservatives should be admitted in the putting up of ketchup, pickles and other table delicacies, the claim advanced by the H. J. Heinz company of Pittsburgh that all such foods could be adequately preserved without the use of artificial preservatives, compelled the deepest interest of the Pure Food commission. At a hearing given by the commission recently the representatives of the Heinz company produced a two-horse wagonload of various pickles, ketchup, preserves and canned goods of all kinds which they showed to be absolutely free from artificial preservatives. "How do you do this?" asked Dr. Wiley of Vice President Mauller. "By the use of pure raw materials and the most complete sanitation of our plant," replied Mr. Mauller. He explained that his company had been experimenting for years to produce products which would bear transportation and storage without preservatives and it was satisfied it had solved the problem. "What we can do," he said, "others can do," and he urged upon the commission the necessity of absolutely prohibiting the use of even a small quantity of preservatives in such foods.

The Heinz company being one of the largest, if not the largest packer of such products in the country, its attitude toward the use of preservatives will attract widespread attention and will probably lead to a further controversy before the commission and packers desiring to continue the use of benzoate of soda and other chemical preservatives.

Not infrequently in the advertisement of certain beers it is announced that the hops used in its manufacture are "imported," leaving the impression that imported hops are more valuable or better than domestic. Yet the Department of Agriculture is authority for the statement that America supplies nearly one-half of the hops used in the United Kingdom where immense quantities of beer are consumed. The United States also exports large quantities of hops to Australia, British India and Canada where beer is largely consumed, but it is naively remarked that in those countries comparatively large amounts of hops are used per barrel, but they are not particular as to the quality. In 1905 the breweries of this country used 41,630,172 pounds of hops in brewing 54,724,553 barrels. The quantity of hops imported that year was 10,150,980 pounds, valued at $2,326,982. Hops are principally produced in New York, California, Oregon and Washington, the remainder of the country raising a negligible quantity, yet it is stated that there are large areas suitable for hop-raising, sufficient, indeed, to supply the trade of the world. To grow hops successfully the soil must be fertile and mellow, or as it is when suitable for corn; well drained but not too dry; with climate mild and not subject to extreme heat or cold during the growing season, nor to winds. The greatest trouble is to secure labor during the picking season. Hops must be gathered by hand and during a few weeks in August and September. Thus a large number of laborers are needed for but a short period. The three principal beer-producing countries are Germany, the United Kingdom and the United States, with 62,001,598 barrels, 47,188,000 barrels and 54,724,553 barrels respectively. At the present rate of increase it will be but a short time when the production of beer in the United States will exceed that of Germany and will lead the world. In the United Kingdom and Germany hop production is decreasing and beer production increasing so, the demand for American hops both at home and abroad should increase. "The United States is capable of supplying the world with hops," however greatly the demand may increase, if the prices in the world's markets offer sufficient inducements," said Victor H. Olmsted, chief of the statistical bureau of the Department of Agriculture, in discussing this question.

The Department of Commerce and Labor has been notified that the council of the Ottoman empire has forbidden the exportation of tobacco seed from all parts of Turkey. This action was taken, it is reported, because the tobacco trade of Turkey has suffered greatly of recent years from the competition of South African and other planters, who produce large quantities of tobacco grown from Turkish seed. It is claimed that tobacco, from the original Turkish seed, will not produce seed of equal properties if planted outside its native climate, consequently the planters elsewhere have purchased seed annually in regions where the finest flavored Turkish tobacco is grown. By prohibiting the exporting of the seed the council expects to end the production of "Turkish" tobacco outside of Turkey. What effect it will have on American made "Turkish" cigarettes is problematical.

TEMPERANCE TALKER PLEASES AUDIENCES

M. L. Hostetter Has Large Audience at the Baptist Church—Last Evening.

The lecture at the Baptist church last night, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., by M. L. Hostetter, the noted reformed man, was the most unique and one of the most entertaining and instructive temperance addresses ever delivered in this city. There was a good audience and the speaker held its undivided attention for nearly two hours. The title of the lecture was "The Story of a Wasted Life" and was a graphic recount of his own experiences as a drinking man, the depths to which he descended, and his final reformation. Mr. Hostetter was a Wisconsin boy, having been born and brought up on a farm near Brodhead, and it was there, he said, where he began to drink. When a young man, about 30 years ago, he went west and for a long time was prosperous and successful in business. Drink finally overcame him, however, and he went into the ditch. Six years ago he was reclaimed at a mission in Des Moines, Ia., which was being maintained by the Woman's Christian Temperance union, and then began life all over again. He then promised God that he would give the rest of his life to His service, and the result is Mr. Hostetter's lectures and writings, for he is the author of several books and has written much upon the temperance question.

Mr. Hostetter charges society with its downfall, but brings the charge in love. He says society authorized the establishment of an elegant and respectable saloon and that the more respectable a saloon is the worse it is. However, the speaker said he had no unkind words for anyone connected with it. They each did the best they knew. Mr. Hostetter's lecture contained not a word of hatred toward anyone. He expressed warmest love for the drinking man, said he had the kindest feeling toward the saloon-keeper as a man but argued against the saloon system as a system.

Mrs. N. E. Field, president of the W. C. T. U., says the union is highly gratified that Mr. Hostetter came and wished every man in the city could have heard the lecture. His ideas are original, his reasoning is along entirely new lines, and his wit and humor, which the lecture abounds in, is clear and true to life. If Mr. Hostetter should return he would doubtless be greeted by a large audience. There was good music last night and in every way the meeting was successful. Rev. and Mrs. Meads sang with fine effect, "The Bird with a Broken Pinion," and after the lecture Messrs. Albrecht and Fred Grove rendered a fine duet.

SIX CORNERS. May 21.—Those who failed to hear Prof. Charles O. Merica of Indiana give his lectures at the Good Templar Chautauque at Milton last Saturday and Sunday certainly missed a great treat. Quite a number from this place were in attendance and all pronounce Prof. Merica a most gifted orator. Walter Shadel is on the sick list. Dexter Gray entertained sheep shears last Saturday.

Will Pember of Joliet, Ill., was a business caller in this vicinity last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Johns were last Sunday guests at August Krueger's.

DECIDE ON PLANS OF THE ANNUAL PICNIC

Wednesday, June 12, is the Date Fixed for the Gala Day for Boys of 'Sixty-one.

When Officer of the Day G. S. Moreley of Beloit and Officer of the Guard John Davidson of Milton, Salute Commander S. C. Cobb of Janesville and Adjutant E. B. Heinstreet of Janesville read out the general orders of the day on June 12th, Yost's park will be truly a military camp, smacking of the war days with guardhouse, provost guard, and regulations to keep the "boys" of former days in order. All details of this great encampment of one day were decided upon at a meeting of veterans of the civil war from Ft. Atkinson, Evansville, Milton, Beloit, Clinton and Janesville held at Heinstreet's drugstore Tuesday afternoon. No detail was neglected that will go to make the gathering a success. To arrange for the financial end of the day the following committee was chosen: William Mauller of Clinton, John Wolff of Ft. Atkinson, A. Alder of Edgerton, H. A. Babcock of Evansville, S. Wetzler of Beloit, J. F. Cable of Janesville, and A. O. Gifford of Milton. At sharp twelve the old-time mess call will sound.

"Soupy! Soupy! Soupy! Without a single bean; Porky! Porky! Porky! Without a streak of lean; Coffee! Coffee! Coffee! The meanest ever seen."

Then there will be the old-time standbys—the good old army band of fable and fiction, the coffee served in tin cups and the rest of the good things dear to the hearts of soldiers. It promises to be a great feast. Then comes the afternoon program. At two there is to be good speaking. This will be followed by a drilling contest, the tactics under which the soldier boys of sixty-one drilled. This promises to be amusing and interesting as well, but the real drill of the afternoon will come when dress parade is held at 5 p. m. Martial music will be furnished during the day by the famous Janesville Fife and Drum Corps reinforced by others of the old-time musicians. Taking it all in all it is going to be a day of days for the soldier boys and large crowds will be present from all over the county.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.
LIVER TROUBLE.

A sluggish liver always brings a dull, sluggish feeling in the entire body. When the liver works properly the blood in the body is in a bright red stream. When the liver is inactive the blood becomes dull and muddy, and it is full of poisonous matter. A great many people try to get a fine, clear complexion by rubbing things on their faces. They might rub a life time and the same yellow complexion would remain—for the liver causes it. Only bright red blood brings fine complexion. Blood loaded with impurities, from the liver sends the impurities out through the pores of the skin and turns the skin a brownish yellow.

To get rid of the dull, heavy feeling and muddy, yellow complexion get the liver to working again. Two bottles of Cooper's New Discovery will do this in ten times out of ten though sometimes it takes four or five bottles. Here's what a man who tried it says: "My health had been poorly for several years. My face was yellow and covered with pimples. I was bothered constantly with chronic constipation, had little or no appetite and could not sleep well at night. I became weak and lost all ambition. I tried many different medicines, but nothing seemed to help me until I began taking Cooper's New Discovery. It seemed to help me at once. Now, after I have taken several bottles I feel entirely well. My face is clear. I sleep well, have a good appetite and am quite myself again."

"I am deeply grateful for my restored health." Michael Silk, 24 Kentucky Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.

HOW TO TELEPHONE, ACCORDING TO RULE

It Pays to Use it Properly and Also Makes Lives Pleasanter.

One of the assets of the man who does business today is his telephone voice, provided he knows how to make a good impression when he talks over the wire. All sorts of affairs are now conducted by telephone by the importance of telephoning in the proper way is often overlooked by business men who would on no consideration permit a poorly typewritten letter to leave their offices. "Take the trouble to fix firmly in your mind half a dozen simple rules, put them in practice and see if your telephone conversations are not made of increased value in your business. Here are the rules:

1. When you are talking by telephone to a person in your own town speak in an ordinary tone of voice. Do not whisper into the transmitter. But on the other hand, do not shout at the instrument as if you had a grudge against the telephone system and everybody who uses the telephone.

2. When you are using a long distance line elevate your voice and speak a little louder than you would speak to a man sitting in the room with you. This does not mean, however, that you should try to make noise as loud and discordant as those produced by the caliope in the circus parade.

3. Besides speaking distinctly, avoid talking too fast. There are orators who reel off words at the rate of 300 a minute, and still make themselves understood but they couldn't do it by telephone.

4. When you telephone devote yourself to telephoning. When you are writing a letter you do not, at the same time, look out the window to see who is going by on the other side of the street. If you turn your back on the telephone and send your words flying hither and yon all over the room and into the great world outside, it is not fair to blame the apparatus. It is the man at the other end of the line if he does not hear distinctly all that you say.

5. Remembering rule 4, speak directly at the transmitter. Don't get so near it that you seem to be trying to crawl into it. Neither should you keep it at arm's length. It won't hurt you. Sit or stand so that your lips are about an inch from the transmitter and your words will go flying on their journey without trouble.

6. If you are using a desk telephone, don't hold it upside down or at all sorts of odd angles. The desk telephone was made to do its work when standing on its own base or held in a perpendicular position. You would not expect a thermometer to be accurate if you hung it wrong side up. Why not use the telephone as it was intended to be used?

WEATHER CONDITION OF THE PAST WEEK

Simplified Spelling Report of the Milwaukee Climatological Service.

After the still too cool, the weather during the past week has been the most favorable of this spring for the germination and growth of vegetation. The week opened warm and there were some beneficial showers throughout the State from the 12th to 17th. In the northern part of the State the rain turned to snow and on the 15th there was an all-day snowstorm at Spooner and two inches of snow fell at Solon Springs on the same day. From the morning of the 18th until the end of the week the weather was generally clear with slowly falling temperature, which culminated in a heavy frost on the morning of the 20th, the week ending clear and cool.

The mean temperature for the week was slightly above the normal along the Lake Michigan shore, but elsewhere over the State it was decidedly below the normal. The total precipitation was slightly below the seasonal average except at a few stations in the east-central and north-central sections, where it was above the average. The few days of comparatively warm weather, together with the fairly abundant showers, produced a very noticeable improvement in the appearance of the spring vegetation. Grass has made good growth, the leaves on the earlier trees are now of fair size, and the flower buds are opening rapidly.

FIVE TABLES OF SIX-HANDED EUCHRE

Dr. and Mrs. Fred Sutherland Entertained Last Evening—Luncheon For Miss Sutherland on Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. Fred E. Sutherland entertained a company of friends, at their pleasant home on Harrison street last evening. ## PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. This tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. It is effective, charming, pleasant, and safe. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with nervous, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a remedy for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets. It takes in 20 minutes and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brace your finger and don't let it get red, red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is. Always. It's Shoop's Headache Tablets. We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

..Forty Years Ago..

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, May 22, 1867.—A New Reap Factory in Prospect—Several gentlemen contemplate organizing another factory for the manufacture of the Glow reaper to supply the states not embraced in the territory owned by Smith & Co. Hope they will do so.

Boy Lost—A boy nine years of age who is the adopted son of Mrs. Atkinson of the town of Harmony, has been missing from the home since Monday, and no trace of him has as yet been obtained. His friends are naturally in very great trouble concerning him.

Improvements at the Milton Junction House—The Messrs. Morgan of the Milton Junction House are now engaged in putting a large addition to their new commodious house. The new part will be 24x22 and of the same height as the main building. When this improvement is completed their house will have a front of 114 feet on the Northwestern road, and will be one of the most comfortable of any on the line of travel. These gentlemen know how to keep a hotel.

A New Water Drawer—Where wells are as deep as they are in some parts of our city, and as they are almost universally on the prairies, it is a matter of no small moment to settle upon the best method of drawing the water from. Pumps either play out or get out of order, and an ordinary well rigging is too slow and laborious in its operations. The best thing we have seen for this purpose is Anderson & Brunson's elevators—something new—but judging from its looks, it is bound to supersede other contrivances.

Before The Footlights.

Oscar L. Figman, the co-star of "The Tenderfoot" with Ruth White, owes much of his great success as a comedian to the thorough training he got in the old stock companies in the East. Dramatic writers all over the country have deplored the passing of the stock companies, and with reason. There is no school wherein the actor may learn so many of the fine points of his profession as in a permanent organization of this kind. Figman started on the stage playing utility parts, as they were called, and playing villains. The change of comedy roles was a big one, but was made at the request of Wm. P. Col-

The M. E. Ladies will meet on Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. John Hurd.

JAMES ALLEN
Brigadier General James Allen, the new head of the United States Signal corps, is a native of Indiana. He was commissioned as a cadet to the Military Academy at West Point on July 1, 1868, from his native state, and took the four years' course, which then existed, with high honors. General Allen did not enter the Signal Corps until December 19, 1890, and had a splendid record as an Indian fighter in the far west before being transferred to his present department. He entered the cavalry branch of the service as a second lieutenant on June 14, 1872, and served seven years before getting his first step in the service. It was not until 1885 that General Allen received his captaincy, despite the fact that he was honorably mentioned in dispatches from the field during various Indian outbreaks. He was transferred from the cavalry into the Signal corps in 1890, while a captain, and received similar rank in his new department. His post as chief of the Signal corps is much sought after, as it carries distinctive importance and a desirable residence in Washington.

Twenty Per Cent Discount

That is what has made a lively week in the garment department, the sale of the high-class tailored suits, separate skirts and separate coats, which has been in force the past week has created an unusual interest. Women know that the styles shown here are the styles approved by the best dressers. Suits and skirts of Panama, Voile, neat checks and stripes are all included in the special discount sale and to buy such desirable ready-to-wear lines at such a reduction is not usual right in the height of the season. There is a good selection in all sizes for women, 34 to 44, also for misses, 14, 16 and 18 years. Come in and look—you may find just the suit you would like at the price you would like. Millinery—The best in this line is here.

THAT CORNED BEEF

Ever since the Spanish-American war the question of American canned beef has puzzled the European countries. Then came the frightful exposures of would-be reformers as to sanitary conditions of the American stockyards. The report of the department of Commerce and Labor on the exportation of this article of trade is interesting and is as follows:

"Canned beef exports continue to show a marked decline." The latest figures of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor showed exportations of canned beef for the month of April, 1907, amounting to $93,017 pounds, against 4,121,000 pounds in April, 1906; and for the ten months ending with April, 1907, showed but 13,032,703 pounds, against 56,730,573 pounds in the corresponding months of the preceding year, 1906. This seems to indicate that the total value of canned beef exported in the full fiscal year 1907 will scarcely reach 15 million pounds, while in 1906 the total was 64½ million pounds; in 1905, 66½ million pounds; and in 1903, 76½ million pounds. The value of the canned beef exports in the fiscal year about to end will probably not exceed 1½ millions in 1906 and 1905, respectively, and practically 8 millions in 1903. The highest figure ever recorded in the exportations of canned beef was that of the fiscal year 1891, when the total was 109,585,727 pounds, valued at $9,068,906.

This reduction in the exportation of canned beef, which seemed in the beginning to be due to the large falling off in demand in Japan resulting upon the termination of its war with Russia, is now equally apparent in the trade with other countries. The bureau of statistics figures show that the largest falling off at the present time and during the current year occurs in the trade with the United Kingdom. In the single month of March, the latest month for which exports by countries are available, the quantity sent to the United Kingdom was but 281,376 pounds, against 3,180,526 pounds in the same month of the preceding year, and during the nine months ending with March, 1907, the quantity sent to the United Kingdom was but 5,756,825 pounds, against 33,100,950 pounds in the corresponding months of the preceding year. To Belgium, the reduction in exports of canned beef is also considerable, the total quantity sent to that country in the nine months ending with March of the present year having been but 233,771 pounds, compared with 1,290,390 pounds in the corresponding months of the preceding year.

"In the exports to Germany there is a slight increase for the nine months, though the single month of March shows a marked reduction as compared with March of the preceding year; the quantity of canned beef exported to Germany in March, 1907, having been 83,000 pounds, against 302,375 pounds in March, 1906. To Japan the exports of canned beef in the nine months ending with March were 98,112 pounds, against 2,359,735 pounds in the corresponding months of the preceding year."

Now we shall see our city parks blossom and leaf out in all the glad paraphernalia of spring. Then the work of the committee will be appreciated.

The Anti-Saloon League, an organization that seeks to see the laws enforced, is going after the saloon evil in the proper manner.

THE COUNTRY ROADS

After last night's rain, just what was needed, if followed by good weather, would have been the time to improve the country roads. It is on just such days as this that the split log drag should be brought into play on rural roads, so that when they dry they will be firm and hard and not a slough caused by teams coming into the city. The country roads in Rock county are perhaps better than the average, but they are far from perfect. It does not make a road good to dump a few loads of sand or gravel on it and then leave it for the drivers to beat down into semblance of a road with their teams. The good kind of road would drive around such an obstruction and make a new road for himself on the side which soon would become worse than the old road, being lower than the road itself. In early days the Indians made trails over which they traveled. These trails were beaten down as hard as pavement and were used by the pioneers in traversing the wilds of early Wisconsin. Government roads and private turnpikes were built in the east and some of these exist today in good condition. The road builders of antiquity, however, were the Romans. Wherever they went they built roads for military protection and to make intercourse between their different posts easy. Rock county could not build roads like the old Roman highways without great expense, but they could improve their local driveways. Concerted action of each township to keep the roads in their particular town in good shape would work wonders in a short time. A road master who knew his business would be an invaluable addition to the list of county officers.

FOUR-FOOT WALKS

There has been much talk against the four-foot sidewalks in districts where sidewalks are not used to a large extent. Aldermen stand for the regulation, walk in outlying streets, yet they walk day after day over as miserable and dangerous walks as exist in any city, in the business section of the city, without complaint. The four-foot walk is not a monstrous thing, as much as is the sight of having to walk uphill and down hill two or three times in as many blocks when walking along streets supposed to be level, where the city engineer has made a new grade. These are disgraces to the city, yet they are allowed to exist. Old plank walks, rotten and decrepit, full of holes and with boards loose, dangerous to all who have to use them, tar walks with holes filled with sand, or with loose gravel that are liable to give the unwary pedestrian a nasty tumble, go unnoticed; yet the request of property owners with small homes to lay a four or four-and-a-half foot walk in front of the premises is refused.

State legislation can now begin operation. Stephenson has been elected Senator and there should be no more delay as to the passage of those important measures of damming Fish Creek or building a wagon bridge across Peters' Gully. Get to work, gentlemen, and do something that is really worth while heating the Capital building for the amount of gas you are using up would pay for the services of several game wardens.

Madison keeps pounding away on the clean back yards. It is a good game and might well be tried in Janesville. Clean yards beget clean people and stop the spread of disease. A few vines judiciously planted would do much to improve that shed or back fence and give visitors an opportunity to see what a decent looking city Janesville is.

Jerome's dear friend, Abe Hummel, the diminutive New York Lawyer who tried to blacken Evelyn Thaw's character even a shade darker than it was, has gone to the workhouse for one year and is today picking over potatoes for the convicts' dinner, dressed in a garment of misfits and will sleep tonight in cell 23.

Sensationalism is demanded by the people and just at present they are receiving their share of it. The Moyer-Haywood trial in Idaho is certainly promising enough excitement to last even the most exacting palate with gossip for weeks to come.

The legislature is really showing some signs being able to finish up its labors within a reasonable space of time. With this cold raw spring the coal bill of the state has been large and the profits from your meetings small.

Mayor Busse has taken the task of clipping the "Fairies" wings and will force an issue with the members of the school board who do not resign when asked to. There is no delay in Busse's methods of reform.

Mr. Connor says he is tired of politics. Well, Mr. Connor, the Milwaukee Journal will take the credit of having driven you back to the tail timbers if you drop out now, and that would be a disgrace.

Madison has even obtained a circus as part of its Fourth of July program, but it is safe to say it will not be as interesting as would a reproduction of the Nonesuch Bros. if given in Janesville.

All this talk about paving the streets might be delayed until the sidewalks are placed in condition so that it is safe for pedestrians to walk. More people walk than ride anyway.

Funny, isn't it, that both the telephone corporations are fighting the telephone bill before the legislature. There must be some merit in the bill if they are all out to kill it.

Now we shall see our city parks blossom and leaf out in all the glad paraphernalia of spring. Then the work of the committee will be appreciated.

The Anti-Saloon League, an organization that seeks to see the laws enforced, is going after the saloon evil in the proper manner.

Ohio is again in the danger zone and some daring spirit has dared to state that Taft is no politician and will not carry the state.

The man who holds three queens against a bobtail is going to win if he does not get cold feet.

PRESS COMMENT

A Hero Discomforted.
Milwaukee Sentinel: Admiral Evans has the gout. Ours is the best fed navy in the world.

More of the "Imposition."
Sheboygan Herald: Returning explorers from the neighborhood of Jamestown report it in much the same condition as when first discovered by Capt. John Smith.

Cheap Kings Needn't Apply.
Milwaukee Journal: It was quite rational for Mrs. Potter Palmer to reject the king of Servia. Probably kings will some day mate with American women, but the latter should not start with cheap kings.

Only Dope.
Stoughton Hub: Gov. Davidson for a second term, Connor for U. S. senator, next trip, with Stephenson's barrel and the Milwaukee Free Press backing both of them—that's the program they say. "The best laid plans, etc."

Madison Editorial Amenities.
Madison Democrat: After all, what's the use of trying to purify and banish the foul smells of the inner end of East Washington avenue by removing the so-called barnyard while the State Journal continues to linger there.

Capital Frowns on City Fad.
Madison Journal: The wisdom of rescinding that order against roller skating on the sidewalks is made more manifest each day. Little people have never taken up a more healthful or enjoyable spring pastime, than this skating over cement walks.

A Long Range View.
El Paso Herald: Many leading republicans believe that if Taft is beaten in Ohio, governor Hughes will be nominated for president in the republican national convention next year. In any event, Hughes stands a good chance to get on the ticket at one end or the other.

Late at the Skirmish Line.
Stoughton Hub: The Sphinx hath spoken. Since the senatorial fight opened at Madison the Milwaukee Sentinel has not said one word, editorially, about it. Today (Saturday), however, it warbles thusly:

"La Follette's progress and the crusade of reform in Wisconsin have resulted in the selection of Hon. Isaac Stephenson as United States senator. By their fruits shall ye know them."

Milwaukee Wants the Convention.
Plymouth Review: Milwaukee sees a chance of getting the next republican national convention. It is an event worth while going after, and there is no doubt that Wisconsin's metropolis could adequately provide for the delegates and other visitors. It will be held during the heated season when the fresh breeze off Lake Michigan would be most grateful. The entire state will rejoice with Milwaukee if that notable gathering is held there.

Immaterial to Corey.
Fond du Lac Commonwealth: Rev. John L. Clark, the divine who performed the Corey-Gilman marriage ceremony, has confessed his error returned his fee and has been forgiven by his congregation, thus adding somewhat to his notoriety and shedding a new light on the type of clay out of which some preachers are made. This, however, will be of small interest to Corey. He is now legally wedded to his actress friend and probably doesn't care whether his officiating clergyman remains bought or not.

Wealth Honestly Acquired.
Racine Times: Mr. Stephenson has done much for the cause of reform, and it is but right that he should be given credit for his good deeds. It is true that Mr. Stephenson is wealthy, but wealth honestly acquired is no disgrace. Mr. Hutton is rich also. He is not a millionaire, probably, but he is what the ordinary man would call very wealthy. The Journal would call him wealthy. The Journal will find that its vicious and unbridled attacks on Mr. Stephenson will be resented by the thoughtful and fair-minded citizens of Wisconsin.

Upraising the Milwaukee Journal.
Madison Democrat: Of course, just as soon as the Democrat had offered a kindly word for Mr. Stephenson, an old and reputable citizen of the state, the legislature nominated him without delay. That sequence shows the people's confidence in a newspaper that has a long established reputation for fairness and truthfulness. That is the way to accomplish results. To rant and rave, publish uncouth cartoons, slander and abuse everybody who is able to wear a clean shirt, and to turn green with envy at any evidence of thrift on the part of others—that is the certain way to make an ass of one's self and to accomplish nothing.

His Ambition Realized.

Racine Times: Well, the agony is over. Isaac Stephenson is United States senator at last and the ambition of a lifetime is to be realized. Probably it is just as well. Mr. Stephenson is an old man but is possessed of full mental and physical vigor.

He is not the ideal senator by a mile or two, but he will be a more capable, honorable and intelligent representative than those possessed by half of the states in the union. He will be true to the principles he has espoused in the past few years and he will not cause Wisconsin to blush for its senator as New York and several other states have done.

The Times believed that H. A. Cooper was the logical and desirable successor to John C. Spooner, and is still of the same opinion, but it was impossible to elect Cooper and as between Stephenson and the others there was not such a very great choice.

WARM WAVE COMING
IS LATEST REPORT

Weather Forecasters Promise: That Old Sol Will Be Ready for Summer Business by Friday.

Avaunt ye cold shovel. To the camphor and molts with winter garments and prepare for spring. The weather men paid by Uncle Sam, who sit all day in little offices in the tops of high buildings and by a careful comparison of the dope sheets pick out winter weather, rainy days, sunny cloudless skies, to win, have decreed that Friday will see genuine summer weather. The good word was passed over the telegraph wires this afternoon and has been received with rejoicings all along the line. The dreary coal cellar can now gather dust and become an abiding place for spiders and suchlike until fall. The winter furs can give place to summer gauzy nothings, cool and pretty. Flowers will spring up, crops will burst from the soil, grass will grow faster than it can be cut and old Sol will beam forth with all his pristine glory. Summer, beautiful summer, will arrive all at once. All these things are to happen on Friday, unless—Perish the thought, the weatherman has made another blunder.

NINE ENTERED IN STATE TRACK MEET

Janesville Expects to Gather in a Number of Points at Interscholastic.

Janesville high school has entered a team of nine athletes in the Wisconsin state interscholastic track and field meet to be held at Madison Saturday. The relay team and a number of individual contestants are expected to bring home a portion of the honors. A good sized delegation of rooters will accompany the boys and witness the competitions.

The Bower City entries are: Leo Aspinwall, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash; Clarence Horkey, 440-yard run, half-mile run, relay; William Tierman, mile run; Regent Cunningham, 440-yard run, relay; Vincent Koch, 440-yard run, relay; Roy Church, shot put, hammer throw; Lee Woodworth, shot put, hammer throw; Floyd Yeomans, 440-yard run, relay; W. B. Tallman, high jump, broad jump, in drawing for places Cunningham secured second and Horkey first in the 440-yard run line-up, Tierman third in the mile and Horkey a poor position in the second row in the half-mile.

Twenty-three schools have entered about a hundred and forty men, Madison, having no railway lines to pay, will be most largely represented with a team of nineteen. Both East and West Division Milwaukee schools will send several athletes, but Milwaukee's South Division school, which comprises fifteen athletes, has been picked for a winner of the meet, having defeated the other Milwaukee schools last Saturday. Menominee has entered nine, Watertown six, Burlington two, Racine two, Appleton seven, Green Bay (East Side) six, Oshkosh five, Wausau five, Grand Rapids five, Whitewater five, La Crosse two, Beloit two, De Pere one, Sturgeon Bay two, Ripon one, Richland Center two and Sheboygan two.

MARRIED AT SAINT
PATRICK'S AT SEVEN

Miss Ellen J. Heagney and Cornelius G. Sullivan United in Bonds of Matrimony.

Miss Ellen J. Heagney and Cornelius G. Sullivan were married this morning, Dean E. M. McGinnity celebrating nuptial mass at St. Patrick's church at seven o'clock. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Harriet Heagney and the groom by John D. Griffin. The bride was attired in a gown of dove gray, voile, prettily trimmed with Persian braid and valencien lace. Her maid was garbed in a gown of the same material over pink silk. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Heagney, 115 Western avenue. The guests were Miss Margaret Finnegan of Beloit, Mrs. Mary Sullivan, the Misses Agnes Heagney, Katherine Heagney, Nellie Sullivan, Mary Sullivan, Margaret Barron, Mary Crook and the Messrs. James Heagney, Walter Crook, Edward Sullivan, Will Sullivan, William Heagney and Thomas Heagney. The young couple departed on the 12:50 train for Chicago and will reside there at 183 North Hamilton avenue on the west side. Mrs. Sullivan is a very popular young lady in Janesville and Mr. Sullivan, who is a former Janesville boy, is a most worthy young man, now holding the position of traveling fireman on the Wisconsin division of the Northwestern road.

PROGRAM READY FOR CHAUTAUQUA

H. M. HOLBROOK PREDICTS PROSPEROUS SESSION THIS YEAR.

MANY TOP LINERS LISTED

"Billy" Sunday Among Those Who Will Give Addresses—Excellent Attractions.

H. M. Holbrook, Manager of the Janesville Chautauqua, arrived in the city today bubbling over with enthusiasm over the prospects for the coming summer's Chautauqua at Mole's Grove. Mr. Holbrook has what he considers one of the best Chautauqua programs ever offered in this vicinity and is delighted over his ability to secure just the talent he wanted. In speaking of his program he said: "I do not think that the Janesville people will have any reason to complain. The program this year is as fine as money could procure and so diversified that I am sure all will be more than satisfied."

The Topliners.
"As a topline I am going to have Rev. 'Billy' Sunday, whose work needs no introduction. He will be here Friday evening, July 26, and his sermon will be 'Amusements.' Father L. J. Vaughan, also a Janesville favorite, gives two lectures—'A Story of the Stage' and 'The Lost Soul.' He is here August 3d and 4th. Our great card for the morning hour is Miss Anna Amacker. Her topic is domestic science and popular nursing or, the first aid to the injured. This should appeal to everyone, particularly mothers. The lectures will be complete with demonstrations. On the Wednesday morning she talks to women only."

Platform Manager.
"Dr. H. V. Adams of Minnesota will act as platform manager this year. The Heron Sisters Concert company of New York city will be here again for the first three days. Col. George W. Bain of Lexington, Kentucky, will give one lecture on the 27th. The Chicago Lady Quartette will be here for four days and the 'New Sam Jones,' Denton C. Crowl of Ohio is also scheduled for one address. Edward Amherst Ott of Chicago will preach the first Sunday afternoon."

Other Attractions.
"Katherine Eitz-Bowden, in an illustrated production of 'Hiawatha and the Passion Play,' will be most interesting. S. A. Long, the big Y. M. C. A. worker, is also listed to speak. Edmund Brush, the magician, will furnish amusement in his line. John B. Ratto, the impersonator, is also down for an entertainment that is sure to please. Dr. H. W. Sears, 'The Tatty Man and Grumbler,' is one of the jolliest men on the public stage. Gertrude Goodwin Miller, the little reader here last year, again returns. The Dixie Jubilee Concert company are here the last three days in a new program, and last but not least, Ralph Bingham in mirth, mimicry, and music."

Tents Going Fast.
Mr. Holbrook says the fact that the tents and locations for them are going fast and that Mr. F. L. Clemons is the man to see relative to this matter, before it is too late. A new pier and swimming place are among the features promised as well as other improvements on the grounds. The street car company promise better transportation facilities than ever and taking it all in all Mr. Holbrook is very optimistic over its success.

MORTUARY MENTION.

Frank M. Boylan.
Unmindful of the weather friends of the late Frank M. Boylan crowded St. Patrick's church at nine o'clock this morning to attend the funeral services. Members of the St. Aloisius society were present in a body and marched in the cortege. Rev. J. McGinnity celebrated mass and preached a most impressive and feeling sermon. The casket was almost buried under a profusion of large and beautiful floral tributes. The pallbearers were five cousins—Edward Boylan, Joseph Boylan, Edward Madden, Charles McDonald, Roy McDonald—and William Spohn. Interment was in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Mrs. W. J. Bates.
The funeral of the late Mrs. W. J. Bates was held from the home, 7 Racine street, at ten o'clock this morning. Rev. J. H. Tippet officiated and was assisted by Presiding Elder E. S. McChesney and the Rev. Mr. Porter of Milton, who formerly occupied a Janesville pulpit. Song services were rendered by a mixed quartet, composed of the Messdames W. S. Davidson and J. E. Lane and the Messrs. E. E. Van Pool and George Jacobs. The attendance of loving friends was very large and the pier was bedecked with many floral offerings, including sprays from schoolmates of the deceased's daughters.

daughters. The pallbearers were F. J. Barfoot, W. D. Cannon, J. L. Hay, T. E. Bennisson, W. I. Rothermel and F. T. Richards.

TOLD OF VISIT TO THE CZAR'S DOMAIN

Mrs. Fannie Sheldon Bolle Spoke to Girls of High School Philatexian Society.

Mrs. Fannie Sheldon Bolle of Fargo, North Dakota, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Sheldon, spoke to the young lady members of the Philatexian society of the high school at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. The organization has been studying Russia and Mrs. Bolle's lecture on that country proved most interesting and instructive. Mrs. Bolle has visited nearly every portion and corner of the Czar's European domain, having accompanied her husband, Professor Bolle, on a flax-studying tour. She told of conditions that she saw and of a several weeks' visit with a Count near Moscow.

AUTO FACTORY HERE ASSURED

STEPS TO INCORPORATE WILL BE TAKEN AT ONCE.

W. O. THOMAS IS IN CITY

Today to Confer with the Messrs. Jeffris, Parker, Palmer, Bostwick, and Baines, Local Stockholders.

All of the stock for the Janesville automobile factory project has now been subscribed and W. O. Thomas of Chicago, the engineering expert who is to design the car, is in consultation with associates here today regarding the steps to be taken toward the formal organization of the company. It is quite likely, though not definitely determined as yet, that the concern will be incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin within the next fortnight.

Local Men Interested

Five Chicago and six Janesville men will furnish the capital. The names of the former will not be made public until the articles of incorporation are filed. D. K. Jeffris, W. S. Jeffris, George Parker, W. F. Palmer, J. M. Gostwick & Sons, and Frank Baines are the local individuals and firms interested.

To Make Six-Cylinder Car

"We are not yet ready to give out such definite information," said Mr. Thomas to a representative of the Gazette this afternoon. "Our patents are applied for in this country, but until we have secured the same rights in Germany and England it will not do for us, of course, to say much concerning the car we are going to manufacture. However, we can say that it will be of the six-cylinder pattern, and that our aim will be to secure the greatest possible simplicity in the mechanism, and put on the market, at a moderate price, a high grade machine which can compete with the best of them. Unless present plans are modified we shall deal directly with the 'consumers' beginning."

It is definitely decided and indeed a part of the stipulation whereby the stock is subscribed that the plant shall be located in Janesville. Not many men will be employed at the start, as we are to begin operations in a conservative fashion. By next season we shall have a few cars ready for our immediate neighborhood and if our market widens, as we expect it to, we shall be ready to do business on a considerable larger scale during the year following.

DAMAGE DONE BY HEAVY RAIN STORM

Five Points Was Again Flooded and Car Tracks Settled on S. Main St.—Lightning Struck Barn.

Considerable damage was done in several quarters of the city by the heavy downpour of rain which commenced about two o'clock this morning and continued for several hours. The various streets radiating from the Five Points debouched their usual volume of water in that quarter and the entire street in the vicinity of Mrs. Kate Richter's property and the New Madison hotel was submerged. The basements of these two structures were again flooded and more notices of damage are to be expected at the city hall. Mayor Heddles spent some time in the locality this forenoon and some of the street commissioner's force were set at work excavating in the center of the street. The small sewer is entirely inadequate to carry off the water and invariably becomes clogged when there is a heavy rainfall. For over a year now the city authorities have been trying to make the two railroad companies get together and agree on a platform of doing their share of the work in relieving a condition of affairs for which they are largely responsible. At the last council meeting Alderman Dulin laid the whole blame for this disgusting shilly-shallying on the St. Paul. Whoever is responsible should be brought to time in short order and Mayor Heddles is determined to get to the bottom of the matter and see that something definite is done right off.

Lightning Struck Barn

Lightning struck the barn on the Henry Whitaker farm, tenanted by P. J. Hanke, about three miles west of the city and killed one of his horses outright. Another was so badly injured that it cannot live. The structure, itself, escaped serious damage.

Street Car Tracks Settled

There was a report abroad that the sides of the sewer trench on South Main street had caved in, taking with them a portion of the car-track. This was not verified on investigation, but it was found that in the vicinity of the Racine street intersection where the trench had been filled in the western end of the ties had settled to some extent. The amount of the damage cannot be ascertained until the dirt has been piled on the tracks is removed.

Pray for Warm Weather

Farmers are praying that warm weather may follow this storm. With a good stretch of it excellent crops seem assured, but more chilly days will give the planting of corn and other grains a setback for which even the most favorable after-season will not atone.

Railroad Tracks Weakened

There was a near-washout on the Racine & Southwestern division of the St. Paul, and the tracks were weakened to some extent. Roadmaster Dougherty came here from Beloit this morning to get men and make the repairs.

GIVE IMAGINATION AN OUTING TONIGHT

Appreciation of fine pictures is no special prerogative of the best nurtured. Art that is really great, whether it be in music, literature, or painting, must send some sort of a message to every man. For it is no more than the mirror of humanity's common experiences. See the splendid collection of paintings at Library hall tonight and form your own judgments. They are quite as valid as those of the so-called connoisseurs.

SOON WILL REPORT AS TO WATERWAY

INLAND COMMISSION HAS COM-PLETED ITS TRIP.

FROM LAKES TO GULF

Convention at Washington Next January is Probable—Absence of Shipping on Mississippi River Much Commented Upon.

New Orleans, May 22.—The United States inland waterways commission
Tuesday completed its trip by boat from St. Louis to New Orleans. An immense amount of data, some of it bearing on the lakes to Gulf deep waterway project, was gathered en route.

Chairman Theodore F. Burton announced that no expressions of opinion are now ready, but that a convention will probably be held next January at Washington to add the commission to obtain further information
for use in forming recommendations.
From talks with the members, it was learned that some of them were much impressed by the absence of shipping on the Mississippi river. They noted the infrequency with which they met other craft, also the fact that many river towns have almost no dock facilities, and that these towns have given up to railroad use the ground which probably would be used for river shipping purposes.

Mr. Burton gave out the following statement: "This commission was created not merely to study the subject of navigation, but also to report upon the waters of the country as related to national development and the conservation of natural resources.
The subjects to be considered include
water supply, clarification of streams,
water power, and all the varied uses of waters in connection with irrigation, power, reclamation, flood prevention, forests and the public lands.
"It is not the intention of the commission to report on any specific improvement in the rivers of the country, but only on questions of general policy."

"The members of the commission have held meetings daily while on board the boat. A considerable range of topics has been considered, but the members do not feel ready to announce any conclusions. Indeed, it is desired that all subjects be very maturely considered before any report is made."

Mr. Burton would not make a statement about the scarcity of river traffic, but said that the increase or decrease of traffic and the consolidation of navigation and levees were among the subjects investigated.

Chairman Burton and Herbert Knox
Smith, chief of the bureau of corporations, were the only members of the commission to come ashore at New Orleans. They took trains for the north to-night, while the other members, transferred from the steamer Mississippi to the Magnolia and departed on two days' trip to the mouth of the Mississippi river. There they will inspect the jetties and levees.

Turks Kill Their Prisoners.
Berlin, May 22.—A dispatch to the Frankfurter Zeitung from Salonki, European Turkey, says that a detachment of Turkish troops May 19 succeeded in capturing the stronghold of the Bulgarian bands in the Yenidje lake region. The Bulgarians lost 50 men, due to it is alleged, to the fact that the Turks killed their prisoners. The Turkish loss was seven men killed.

The Bulgarians are threatening to destroy all the Greek and Turkish villages in the Yenidje district.

Cars Move at San Francisco.
San Francisco, May 22.—The United Railroads Tuesday began the operation of the Fillmore cross-town line, connecting the Mission district with the western addition, now the business section of the city and also the Hayes and Masonic avenue branch, running to the affiliated colleges south of Golden Gate Park. No serious disturbance took place.

Mrs. Kauffman Given Change of Venue.
Sioux Falls, S. D., May 22.—Judge
Smith brought the proceedings in connection with the application for a change of venue in the Kauffman case to an unexpected end about one o'clock Tuesday afternoon, granting a change to the circuit court of Moody county and fixing June 4 as the date for the commencement of the trial of the case at Flandreau.

MRS. CHADWICK BROKEN DOWN.

A Shadow All That Remains of Former Queen of High Finance.

Cleveland.—A year behind the walls of the penitentiary has transformed
Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, formerly of Cleveland, one of the most notorious women swindlers in the criminal annals of the world, from an aristocratic
"lady," plumed with all the gorgeous finery that thousands of dollars could buy, to a wan, prison-palored woman, broken in spirit and body.

By orders from the government
Mrs. Chadwick is to be transferred from the Ohio penitentiary to the government prison at Moundsville, W.
Va., where she will complete her ten-year sentence for the ruin brought about by her astounding financial transactions.

For the first time since the second

(As She Appears in Penitentiary Garb and Convict's Number.)

imprisonment of Mrs. Chadwick a photograph of the so-called witch of finance has escaped beyond the offices of the penitentiary, where the prison records are kept. It was taken in anticipation of the transfer of the woman to another prison and shows the famous female swindler as she actually appears adorned with a convict's number and dressed in prison clothes.

Less than three years ago Mrs.
Chadwick was living in a palatial home. She was driving about the streets of this city in an automobile and borrowing immense sums of money as though it were water. She would hardly be recognized now by those with whom she engaged in big transactions in the days of her regal splendor.

DECORATION FOR AN AMERICAN.

James Stillman Receives Cross of the Legion of Honor.

New York.—James Stillman, the American banker, who has been decorated as chevalier of the Legion of Honor by the French government, is president of the National City bank of New York, said to be the greatest bank in America. He holds offices in 41 organizations, including banks,
trust companies, real estate, railroad, gas, timber, copper, warehouse and life insurance companies. Two years ago the French counsel of instruction voted to engrave Mr. Stillman's name

JAMES STILLMAN.
(American Banker; Member of French Legion of Honor.)

on the walls of the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris. Mr. Stillman sailed for Europe several days ago and the fact that he was going was not known until after he was on the way. It was announced that Mr. Stillman went on account of his health, but it is more than hinted that he hurried away to escape a summons to testify before the interstate commerce commission in the investigation of the Harriman roads.

Bones of Ancient Britons.

A remarkable find of human remains, supposed to be those of early Britons, was made at Folkestone, recently. Some men engaged in excavations which are being made to improve Dover Hill came across a number of skeletons, with the feet pointing to the east. There are fine complete male skeletons, besides odd skulls, buckles, beads and earrings. It is estimated that the remains are 1,600 years old. An interesting feature of the discovery is that each of the skeletons grasped in its hand a sword or pike, suggesting the idea that the men were killed in battle.

Strictly Business.

"The graspiest man I ever known," said Uncle Jerry Peebles,
"was an old chap named Snopkins.
Somebody told him once that when he breathed he took in oxygen and gave out carbon. He spent a whole day tryin' to find out which of them two gases cost the most if you have to buy 'em. He wanted to know whether he was makin' or losin' money
when he breathed."

Weeping in Union.

La Crosse Tribune: In all the political history of Wisconsin there has been announced no more unfortunate circumstance.

JOCKEY TO SENATOR

CURTIS, OF KANSAS, WINS "FA-TAL LANE SUCCESSION."

Studied Law as a Cab Driver—Goes to Upper House After Eight Elections as Representative—
First Indian to Wear Toga.

Topeka, Kan.—Charles Curtis, who began life as a race horse jockey, then drove a hack for a livelihood, educated himself for the bar, became county attorney, then congressman, is the new United States senator from Kansas, stepping into line of the "fatal lane succession." He takes the seat temporarily occupied by Benson after it had been vacated by Burton, when the latter was forced to resign his seat in the United States senate in order to begin a term of imprisonment in the federal penitentiary.

Curtis is a sure-enough native son.
His mother was a full-blooded Kaw Indian, and he will be the first of his race to set in the United States senate. He is strictly a self-made man and is 47 years old.

Curtis began life in Shawnee county, Kan., where North Topeka now stands, and earned his first money in the days of the old Kansas City Inter-State Fair association, when spider-web titles, embroidered table covers, and pumpkins divided interest with the $10,000 in cash prizes in the speed ring.

Floral hall, machinery hall and the art gallery were deserted one afternoon for the white rail that marked the race course. One of the entries was known to most of the crowd as a crazy horse, who bolted at a certain spot on the track. A new rider was handling the bolter that afternoon—a little fellow with coal-black, straight

Senator from Kansas.)

hair, flashing eyes, and the high cheekbones of an Indian. The rider had been borrowed from another stable.

Off in a bunch they went at the crack of the pistol. When the darkskinned boy and his crazy mount reached the dangerous point on the course, the bolting place, there was a short, sharp struggle. The horse was conquered, and sped on with the others, under the lash. Half around and then there was another struggle and a spill. Boy and horse landed in a thundering heap against the high board fence. When the dust cleared away
the little fellow was picked up unconscious, covered with dust and blood. A long gash lay across his head. That boy was Charles Curtis. To-day he bears the scars.

As he grew up he ran a peanut stand for a time, and then took to hack driving. Most of the schooling he got he gave himself, studying at home at such odd moments as he could find. It was while working as a cab driver that he began the study of law. He read in the office of a Topeka lawyer, and was admitted to the bar when he was only 21. Immediately he was taken into partnership with Mr.
Case, the man in whose office he had studied, and continued the partnership for three years; until he was elected county attorney.

After two terms in that office Mr.
Curtis formed the congressional habit and has kept it up ever since. He was elected to the Sixtieth house last fall,
that being his eighth straight election.
In the house his most conspicuous service has been on the committee on Indian affairs. He was recognized as the house authority on Indian matters,
although not the chairman of the committee. His bill, known as the Curtis act, for the allotment of severalty of the lands and moneys of the five civilized tribes, wound up the communal affairs of 97,000 Indians. As a member of the Kaw tribe he obtained allotments for himself and children aggregating more than 3,000 acres in Oklahoma. He is a sturdy, well-built man, his Indian blood showing in his straightness of figure as well as in his black eyes and swarthy complexion.
He has a fine voice and is a ready speaker.

To-day 117 of his tribe live in Indian territory, a few miles below Arkansas City. Every September, during the season of their tribal festivities, Curtis goes to visit them. Much ceremony, much rejoicing, greets him. Feasting and dancing are indulged in. He is always admitted to the council chamber, and his voice is listened to with great respect by the older members of the tribe. They are proud of him.

Black Hundreds Riot in Odessa.

Odessa, May 22.—The Black Hundreds took advantage of the funeral of the three police officials, assassinated
at the Central police bureau Monday, to renew their attacks on the Jews. The whole Jewish population became terror-stricken; all the stores were closed and the streets were almost deserted.

Fifty-three people were taken to the hospitals suffering from broken heads or limbs, or otherwise dangerously injured as a result of the outbreak of the Black Hundreds. In addition, about a hundred persons were less seriously injured. The victims included women, children and students. Jews were brutally beaten in the streets, and many houses in the Jewish quarter were looted and their occupants terribly beaten. The disorder lasted for several hours, the police making no attempt to suppress it. Further outrages are expected.

SAW THE SOLDIERS SHOOT.

BROWNSVILLE NEWSPAPER MAN
GIVES IMPORTANT TESTIMONY.

Negroes in Uniform Entered Inclosure
in Which He Sat and Fired on Defenseless Persons There.

Washington, May 22.—Paulino S.
Preciado, editor of a Mexican newspaper in Brownsville, Tex., and an eyewitness to the shooting of Frank Natous, the only man killed in the affray there, was on the stand Tuesday before the senate committee on military affairs. Dramatically telling his story in Spanish and having it interpreted for the committee, the testimony easily proved to be the most important heard during the present hearings.

When the shooting began Preciado was sitting in the court in the rear of Tillman's saloon. With him were two companions. According to his story, Mr. Crixell, who conducts a saloon across the street from Tillman's place, rushed in excitedly and reported that the "Negroes were out." The doors to Tillman's saloon were immediately closed and barred and Natous, the bartender, started across the court to bar the gate which connected the court with the alley.

Preciado followed, but before he had emerged from the saloon into the court he saw five or six negro soldiers in uniform near the gate.
They fired several shots and Natous threw up his arms and exclaiming in Spanish: "Oh, God!" fell on his back. He was killed instantly. Another bullet passed through Preciado's coat and vest near the left breast pocket and broke his glasses, which were in a case in the pocket.

The men immediately proceeded down the alley, shooting as they went.
Preciado said they were within three yards of the light at the gate and that the courtyard also was lighted with several lamps. He swore positively that the men were negro soldiers.
Continuing his story, he corroborated
testimony given by other witnesses who were at the saloon.

A Captain of Industry.

A Kansas politician was asked by his wife to lay aside politics long enough one day to dig the potatoes in the garden. He consented and after digging for a few minutes he returned to the house and said he had found a coin. He washed it off and it proved to be a silver quarter. He put it in his jeans and went back to work.
Presently he went to the house again
and said he had found another coin.
He washed the dirt off of it and this time it was a silver half dollar. He put it in his jeans. "I have worked pretty hard," said he to his wife. "I guess I'll take a short nap." When he awoke he found that his wife had dug all the rest of the potatoes. But she found no coins. It then dawned upon her that she had been "worked."

Uncle Constantine, from Fishkill Landing, was in town recently, for the first time in 30 years, according to the New York Times. His relatives were industrious in showing him the sights,
but it was extremely difficult to get him to express surprise at anything.
He even made disparaging comments
now and then, upon what he saw, and drew comparisons favorable to his own town. One afternoon they attended a crowded performance at the circus. "Uncle Constantine," asked his niece, "did you ever see such a number of people gathered together before?" "Well," said the old man slow-thousands that filled the garden, "I don't know as I ever did in a buildin',

but I have to a bush-meetin'."

Has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. The great scientists of all Nations after careful analysis declare that beer brewed from pure barley malt and hops contains only about 3 1/4 per cent of alcohol or just enough to mildly stimulate the body and promote healthy digestion. Dr. Bauer, the German analyst (whose fame is international) says "Beer has a number of pleasant and valuable qualities. No other beverage contains such a combination of useful properties. The water of it quenches the thirst, the carbonic acid refreshes, the extracts are nutritious, the alcohol furthers digestion, the mineral salts build up the bones and extracts of hops act as a tonic."

A MAKER OF HISTORY

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM,

Copyright, 1905, 1906, by LITTLE, BROWN and COMPANY.

"De Rothe was staying with me, as you know, and just before we started he had a telegram that a messenger from the embassy was on his way down. He hesitated for some time as to whether he ought not to stay at home so as to be here when he arrived, but we persuaded him to come with us and promised to send him back after luncheon. When we got to Chestow, however, the wind had become a gale, and it was impossible to shoot decently. De Rothe was a little uneasy all the time, I could see, so he and I and a few of the others returned here, and the rest went up to Chestow. Just as we arrived Fielding passed us in a great motor car, with his daughter behind. When we got to the house De Rothe inquired for the messenger. He was told that he was in Mr. Fielding's sitting room, but when we got there we found the door locked, and through the key hole we could hear a man groaning. We broke the door in and found De Rothe's messenger half unconscious and a rifle dispatch box upon the floor. He has given us no coherent account of what has happened yet, but it is quite certain that he was attacked and robbed by Mr. Fielding."

"What was stolen?" Spencer asked. "Money?" "No, a letter," Lord Runtun answered. "De Rothe says very little, but I never saw a man so broken up. He has left for London tonight."

"The matter is in the hands of the police, of course?" Spencer asked. Lord Runtun shook his head.

"De Rothe took me into his room and locked the door a few minutes after we had discovered what had happened. He implored me to keep the whole affair from the press and from publicity in any form. His whole career was at stake, he said, and very much more than his career. All that we could do was to follow Mr. Fielding and drag him back by force if we could. Even then he had little hope of recovering the letter. We did our best, but of course we had no chance. Mr. Fielding and his daughter simply drove off. De Rothe is dealing with the affair in his own way."

"It is a most extraordinary story," Spencer said quietly.

Lord Runtun turned toward him. "I have treated you with confidence, Mr. Spencer," he said. "Will you tell me now why you called at my house to see Mr. Fielding today?"

Spencer hesitated, but only for a moment.

"Certainly," he said. "I came because I knew that Mr. Fielding was halfway to America and his daughter in Russia. Some friends of mine were curious to know whom your guests could be."

Pelham raised his head. "You lied to me, then!" he exclaimed. "I had as much right to lie to you," Spencer answered calmly. "as you had to ask me questions. I had."

He stopped short in the middle of his sentence. The faces of the three men were a study in varying expressions. From some other part of the house there came to them the sound of a woman's sudden cry of terror—the cry of a woman who had awakened suddenly to look into the face of death. Duncombe's uplifted glass fell with a crash upon the table. The red wine trickled across the tablecloth.

CHAPTER XXII.

DUNCOMBE was out of the room in a very few seconds. The others hesitated for a moment whether to follow him or not. Spencer was the first to rise to his feet and move toward the door. Lord Runtun and Pelham followed a moment or two later. Outside in the hall the house was perfectly silent.

Duncombe reached the library door just in time to find himself confronted by half a dozen of the men and women servants coming from the back of the house. With his hand upon the door knob he waved them back.

"Be so good, Mrs. Wooton," he said to the housekeeper, "to keep better order in the servants' hall. We could hear some girls calling or laughing in the dining room."

"Indeed, sir," Mrs. Wooton answered, with some dignity, "the noise, whatever it was, did not come from the servants' quarters. We fancied that it came from your library."

"Quite impossible," Duncombe answered coolly. "If I require any one, I will ring."

He passed through the door and locked it on the inside. In half a dozen hasty strides he was across the room and inside the smaller apartment where he had left the girl. With a little gasp of relief he realized that she was there still. She was pale, and a spot of color was blazing in her cheeks. Her hair and dress were a little disordered. With trembling fingers she was fastening a little brooch into her blouse as he entered. A rush of night air struck him from a wide open window.

"What has happened?" he called out. "I have been terrified," she answered. "I am sorry I called out. I could not help it. A man came here—through the window. He talked so fast that I could scarcely hear what he said, but he wanted that paper. I tried to make him understand that I had not got it, but he did not believe me—and he was rude."

Duncombe shut down the window, swearing softly to himself. "I cannot stay with you," he said, "just now. The whole house is alarmed at your cry. Listen!"

There was a loud knocking at the library door. Duncombe turned hastily away.

"I must let them in," he said. "I will come back to you."

"He is coming back," she said, "at 12 o'clock."

"Do you wish me to give up the paper?" he asked.

"No."

"Very well, I will be with you when he comes—before then, I must get rid of these men first."

He closed the door softly and drew the curtain which concealed it. Then he opened the library window and for a moment afterward the door.

"Come in, you fellows," he said. "I scarcely knew what I was doing when

With a little gasp of relief he realized that she was there still.

I locked the door. I fancy one of the housemaids has been seeing ghosts in the garden. I saw something white among the shrubs, but I could find nothing. Come on out with me."

Spencer followed with a perfectly grave face. "Lord Runtun looked puzzled. Pelham did not attempt to leave the library. Spencer drew his host a little on one side.

"What a rotten liar you are, George," he said. "I don't think that even Runtun was taken in."

"I suppose it sounded a little thin," Duncombe answered coolly. "Put it this way, then, so far as you are concerned: The shriek occurred in my house. I've no explanation to offer to anybody."

"I like the sound of that better, Duncombe," he remarked. "Hello! What's the matter with Runtun?"

Lord Runtun was calling to them. "You've had a visitor who was in a hurry, old chap?" he remarked. "Send for a lantern."

Duncombe concealed his annoyance. "I don't want to alarm the whole household," he said. "I've a little electric torch in my study. I'll fetch that."

He brought it out. The progress of a man from the road to the small window, toward which Duncombe glanced every now and then apprehensively, was marked by much destruction. The intruder had effected his exit either in great haste or in a singularly unfortunate manner. He had apparently missed the gate, which at this point was only a small hand one, and in clambering over the fence he had broken the topmost strand of wire. He had blundered into a bed of wallflowers, which were all crushed and down-trodden, and snapped off a rose tree in the middle. Below the window were distinct traces of footmarks. Lord Runtun, who held the torch, was becoming excited.

"Duncombe," he said, "there is something which I have not told you yet. I have had numerous reports in about the car and was able to trace it as far as Lynn, but they all agreed in saying that it contained only two persons—the driver and the man who called himself Fielding. What became of the girl?"

"I have no idea," Duncombe answered steadily.

"Of course not," Lord Runtun continued. "But don't you think it possible that—without your knowledge, of course—she may be hidden somewhere about here? That cry was not like the cry of a housemaid. Let us have the whole place searched."

Duncombe shrugged his shoulders. "As you will," he answered. "I am certain, however, that it will be useless. There is no place here where any one could hide."

"Your servants may know something," Runtun suggested.

"I have already questioned them," Duncombe answered.

"Come along, Mr. Spencer," Lord Runtun exclaimed. "Let us search the grounds."

Spencer shook his head.

"Waste of time, Lord Runtun," he answered. "If you really want to discover the whereabouts of this missing young lady and she should by any chance be close at hand, I should recommend you to induce Sir George to let you search the room to which those footprints lead."

"The library," Duncombe interrupted quickly. "Search it by all means, if you like. I have done so myself already."

Spencer was facing the house.

"The library," he remarked reflectively. "Ah!"

He stooped down to light a cigarette. Suddenly he felt Duncombe's hot breath upon his cheek. In the momentary glow of the match he caught a silhouette of a pale, angry face whose eyes were flashing upon him.

"This isn't your affair, Spencer. Shut up!"

Spencer blew out the match deliberately. They both followed Lord Runtun to the library. Pelham was standing in the middle of the room. He had the appearance of a man listening intently.

"George," he asked sharply, "what is on the north side of this room?"

"The wall," Duncombe answered.

"And beyond?"

"A passage and the billiard room," Spencer seemed dissatisfied.

"I fancied," he muttered, "but I suppose it must have been fancy. Do the women servants use that passage?"

"Of course! Upon my word," Duncombe added, with a nervous little laugh, "you all seem to be trying to make my house into a Maskeyne and Cooke's house of mystery. Let us go into the dining room and have a whiskey and soda."

"Not for me, thanks," Lord Runtun declared. "I must go back. The real object of my coming here, Duncombe, was to see if the Mr. Spencer who called at Runtun House today was really Mr. Jarvis Spencer, and if so to ask him whether he would help me."

"To what extent, Lord Runtun?" Spencer asked quietly.

"To the extent of recovering or attempting to recover the papers which were stolen from the Baron de Rothe," Lord Runtun said. "The Baron was a guest in my house, and I feel the occurrence very much. He will not let me even mention the matter to the police, but I feel sure that he could not object to Mr. Spencer's taking the matter in hand."

"I think you will find," Spencer said, "that De Rothe has already placed the matter in the hands of his own people. The German secret service is pretty active over here, you know. I have come in contact with them once or twice."

"Nevertheless for my own satisfaction," Lord Runtun continued, "I should like the matter inquired into by you, Mr. Spencer."

"I am not quite sure whether I am free to help you or not," Spencer said slowly. "May I come and see you to-morrow morning?"

"If you prefer it," Lord Runtun said doubtfully. "Come as early as possible. Good night, Duncombe! I should like to know who your nocturnal visitor was."

"If he comes again," Duncombe said, "I may be able to tell you."

He walked to his desk and taking out a revolver, slipped it into his pocket. Then he rang the bell for Lord Runtun's carriage. It seemed to Duncombe that there was a shade of coolness in his visitor's manner as he took his leave. He drew Spencer a little on one side.

"I want you to promise to come and see me in any case to-morrow morning," he said. "There is something which I should prefer saying to you in my own house to saying here."

Spencer nodded.

"Very well," he said, "I will come. I can promise that much at least."

Lord Runtun departed. Pelham went off to bed. Spencer and his host were left alone in the library.

"Billiards or a whiskey and soda in the smoke room?" the latter asked. "I know that you are not a late bird."

"Neither, thanks. Just a word with you here," Spencer answered.

Duncombe paused on his way to the door. "Spencer was standing in a reflective attitude, with his hands behind his back, gently balancing himself upon his toes."

"I am very much disposed," he said, "to accept Lord Runtun's offer. Have you any objection?"

"Of course I have," Duncombe answered. "You are working for me."

"Was working for you," Spencer corrected gently. "That is all over, isn't it?"

"What do you mean?" Duncombe exclaimed.

Spencer stood squarely upon his feet. He looked a little tired.

He stooped down to light a cigarette. Suddenly he felt Duncombe's hot breath upon his cheek. In the momentary glow of the match he caught a silhouette of a pale, angry face whose eyes were flashing upon him.

"This isn't your affair, Spencer. Shut up!"

Spencer blew out the match deliberately. They both followed Lord Runtun to the library. Pelham was standing in the middle of the room. He had the appearance of a man listening intently.

"George," he asked sharply, "what is on the north side of this room?"

"The wall," Duncombe answered.

"And beyond?"

"A passage and the billiard room," Spencer seemed dissatisfied.

"I fancied," he muttered, "but I suppose it must have been fancy. Do the women servants use that passage?"

"Of course! Upon my word," Duncombe added, with a nervous little laugh, "you all seem to be trying to make my house into a Maskeyne and Cooke's house of mystery. Let us go into the dining room and have a whiskey and soda."

"Not for me, thanks," Lord Runtun declared. "I must go back. The real object of my coming here, Duncombe, was to see if the Mr. Spencer who called at Runtun House today was really Mr. Jarvis Spencer, and if so to ask him whether he would help me."

"To what extent, Lord Runtun?" Spencer asked quietly.

"To the extent of recovering or attempting to recover the papers which were stolen from the Baron de Rothe," Lord Runtun said. "The Baron was a guest in my house, and I feel the occurrence very much. He will not let me even mention the matter to the police, but I feel sure that he could not object to Mr. Spencer's taking the matter in hand."

"I think you will find," Spencer said, "that De Rothe has already placed the matter in the hands of his own people. The German secret service is pretty active over here, you know. I have come in contact with them once or twice."

"Nevertheless for my own satisfaction," Lord Runtun continued, "I should like the matter inquired into by you, Mr. Spencer."

"I am not quite sure whether I am free to help you or not," Spencer said slowly. "May I come and see you to-morrow morning?"

"If you prefer it," Lord Runtun said doubtfully. "Come as early as possible. Good night, Duncombe! I should like to know who your nocturnal visitor was."

"If he comes again," Duncombe said, "I may be able to tell you."

He walked to his desk and taking out a revolver, slipped it into his pocket. Then he rang the bell for Lord Runtun's carriage. It seemed to Duncombe that there was a shade of coolness in his visitor's manner as he took his leave. He drew Spencer a little on one side.

Spencer nodded.

"Very well," he said, "I will come. I can promise that much at least."

Lord Runtun departed. Pelham went off to bed. Spencer and his host were left alone in the library.

"Billiards or a whiskey and soda in the smoke room?" the latter asked. "I know that you are not a late bird."

"Neither, thanks. Just a word with you here," Spencer answered.

Duncombe paused on his way to the door. "Spencer was standing in a reflective attitude, with his hands behind his back, gently balancing himself upon his toes."

"I am very much disposed," he said, "to accept Lord Runtun's offer. Have you any objection?"

"Of course I have," Duncombe answered. "You are working for me."

"Was working for you," Spencer corrected gently. "That is all over, isn't it?"

"What do you mean?" Duncombe exclaimed.

Spencer stood squarely upon his feet. He looked a little tired.

S.S.S. OF ALL TONICS

Everyone should take a tonic in the Spring; their systems require it. The blood has become thick and sluggish with the accumulations left in the system from breathing the impure air of closed rooms and overheated buildings; the heavy, rich foods of the Winter season, etc., and when this vital fluid is aroused and stirred to quicker action by the return of warmer weather, these waste matters and poisons are distributed through the circulation, to act depressingly and injuriously on the system. The blood being in this unnatural and impure condition is unable to furnish the body with the proper amount of nourishment and strength, and the system suffers from debility, weakness, nervousness, indigestion, loss of appetite, and many other unpleasant symptoms of a disordered blood circulation.

The depleted system must have assistance; it needs a tonic and it is important that the proper one be selected. When the health is in this disordered condition it is not safe to take unknown concoctions, sarsaparillas, etc., because they usually contain potash or other strong mineral ingredients which act unfavorably and often dangerously on the run-down, weakened system, at a time when it needs gentle and natural stimulation to throw off the impurities and recuperate its lost energy. A great deal is being said these days about living close to nature, and it is more applicable to medicines, perhaps, than anything else. Nature has provided a remedy for all the ills of mankind, and medicines made from nature's vegetation act better in every way than do the strong mineral mixtures which are the products of the chemist's or apothecary's shop.

The greatest of all tonics is S. S. S. It is made entirely of the roots, herbs and barks of the forests and fields, selected for their purifying and health restoring qualities; and as it does not contain the slightest trace of mineral in any form it is especially adapted for a systemic remedy, one that is absolutely safe for young or old. S. S. S. acts directly on the blood, ridding it of any and all impurities and poisons, and restoring the lost properties of rich, nutritive strength so that it is enabled to supply to the system the healthful, invigorating energy needed to pass this trying season of the year. Its action is the most prompt, pleasant and satisfactory of all tonics and blood purifiers, and those who are beginning to feel the need of a medicine to fortify the system against the unpleasant conditions that come with Spring, will do well to commence its use at once. It will not only tone up the system, but will remove any taint or humor that may be in the blood and thus prevent an outbreak of Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum or other rash or eruption of the skin. S. S. S. restores lost energy, relieves that all worn out, tired feeling, quiets the nerves, helps the appetite and imparts a relish for food, and in every way adds tone and vigor to the entire system, and prepares it for the depressing Summer months that are to follow.

In selecting your tonic for this year do not be led into believing that others are "just as good," but get S. S. S., THE GREATEST OF ALL TONICS, and one that for more than forty years has been recognized as such. It is Nature's tonic, absolutely pure and safe, and reliable in every way. S. S. S. is for sale at all first-class drug stores.

TRIAL TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

PREDICTION MADE IN STEUNENBERG MURDER CASE.

Harry Orchard Will Be First Witness and His Cross-Examination Promised to Be Severe.

Boise, Idaho, May 22.—It is predicted that the first witness testifying to circumstances connected with the crime in the Steunenberg murder case will take the stand one week hence. There are still unexpended pre-trial challenges; there is an additional vacancy created by the exonerating of J. J. Juror. Orris Cole and under the ruling of Judge Fremont Wood the entire jury is still open to further examination.

The session for Thursday afternoon, already a short one, will be further shortened by the time necessary to hear the excuses of the special veniremen directly they are assembled in court and no doubt is expressed about the completion of the jury by adjournment on Saturday afternoon. Those who reduce the proposition to a mathematical calculation based upon the experience of the trial to date predict that the jury will be finally sworn some time on Monday next; that the opening statement will be made on either Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning and that the first real testimony will be taken on Tuesday.

It has not been decided whether James H. Hawley or Senator Borah will make the opening statement for the prosecution. The prosecution continues to file the names of all witnesses to be used in the four cases pending, and they now number nearly 200. Less than one-third of them will be called in the Hawley case.

Harry Orchard, the principal witness for the state, will probably be on the stand for a full week. His evidence in chief is expected to occupy from three to four days, and his cross-examination nearly as long. It is believed that he will be called about one week from Thursday, assuming that the jury is sworn on Monday.

The great battle of the trial will come with the introduction of Orchard in court. It is expected that there will be a fight against admission at every important stage of his testimony and that he will be submitted to the strongest examination that the combined ingenuity and cleverness of the defense can devise. Attorney E. F. Richardson will conduct the cross-examination of Orchard.

SIX DIE IN LYNCHING BEE.

Result of Attempted Criminal Assault by Georgia Negro.

Reidsville, Ga., May 22.—Two negroes lynched and four other persons dead and six injured is the net result of an attempted criminal assault made on Mrs. Laura Moore (white, widow) about six miles from here, by Flem Padgett, a negro. Padgett and a negro woman are the ones lynched and the death or injury of the others followed the efforts of a posse to capture Padgett.

News of the attempted assault aroused the citizens, who immediately went to the home of the negro's father. He assured the crowd that his son was not within the house and invited the posse to search for themselves. As they approached the house Flem Padgett fired on the crowd, killing a white man named Hare and wounding four others. The crowd fired a volley into the house, killing the old negro Padgett and two of his daughters and wounding two of his sons, one of whom was Flem Padgett, the man wanted.

After the cooler heads had left the scene of the killing, the hot-headed element employed a young man to take Padgett's wife and one of Padgett's boys, who was shot through the lungs, to Reidsville jail, but later the party followed, took the prisoners from the young man in charge and riddled them with buckshot. Those involved in the affair are influential citizens. Further trouble is feared.

Waters-Pierce Trial Begins.

Austin, Texas, May 22.—A jury was secured at noon Tuesday in the case of the state of Texas vs. the Waters-Pierce company, wherein this company is sought to be ousted under the anti-trust laws of the state.

As a preliminary movement in the matter of introducing evidence, the state had read in regular order the charters of the Standard Oil company of Ohio as now existing, the Waters-Pierce Oil company of Missouri, of the year 1878, and then present charter of the Standard Oil company was submitted in connection with affidavits from Ida Tarbell and at adjourning time Tuesday that matter was being presented slowly and was being strongly objected to by the defense.

Without any ruling on the issue involved, the jury in the case, unlike most juries in a civil case, is being kept in charge of the sheriff and is not allowed to communicate with any one.

German-Seamen Strike.

Hamburg, May 22.—A meeting of the German Seamen's union, including machinists and men doing duty on deck, was held Tuesday, and it was unanimously decided to go on strike at once. The men demand a rearrangement of wages, pay for overtime, better treatment and better food. The situation is believed to be serious.

Democratic Support Pledged.

Washington, May 22.—A statement was issued by Secretary Charles A. Edwards, of the Democratic congressional committee, pledging to Oklahoma Democrats the hearty support of the committee in the political fight in the new state.

LARGE SUM FOR WORK OF CHURCH

PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY CALLS FOR MUCH MONEY.

NEED MORE THAN MILLION

Home Missions and Education Require Large Sum—Movement Started Looking to Union with Parent Body.

Columbus, O., May 22.—The Presbyterian general assembly Tuesday received and adopted a number of reports including those of the board of home missions and the board of education. The assembly adopted a resolution declaring that $1,100,000 is the least sum which the churches can be asked to give to enable the board to properly carry through its work the coming year.

An interesting feature of the afternoon session was the presentation to the assembly of Rev. W. R. Evans, moderator of the Welsh Presbyterian church, who announced that a movement had been started in that body looking to a union with the parent church. The announcement was received with prolonged applause.

Developments in the temperance controversy aroused by the antagonism of the Anti-Saloon league to the Inter-Church Temperance federation came rapidly. The standing committee on temperance referred all the overtures affecting the attitude of the church toward the league to the committee on polity, which decided to recommend that no minister of the Presbyterian church, as such, could be an officer or member of the Anti-Saloon league; that they could participate in the work of that organization only as individuals. At the same time the standing committee on temperance received and adopted a resolution asking the standing committee to define the duties of the permanent committee on temperance which represents the church in the Inter-Church Temperance federation. The whole controversy now hinges on the definition of the duties of the permanent committee on temperance. The supporters of the Anti-Saloon league are endeavoring to have the work of this committee confined to promoting temperance along educational and scientific lines, leaving the political field entirely to the Anti-Saloon league.

The standing committee heard a number of persons, including representatives of the Anti-Saloon league, on the subject, and has prepared a rough draft of resolutions which will be further considered to-day.

MORE ANTLERS WERE GIVEN LAST NIGHT

Three New Members Added to the Rolls—Rushing Work on Club Rooms.

Al Kneff, Hugh Hemingway and Amos Rehberg were the favored three who united with the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks last evening. It is now expected that the new club rooms in the Myers theatre block will be ready for occupancy by the first of July. Contractor Denning has received his hardwood for the floors and interior finishings and the work of the carpenters will soon be finished and the decorators given an opportunity to demonstrate their art.

Such a Silly Idea. "Lingerie waists should be squeezed and not rubbed," says a magazine writer. Tut, tut. Who'd care about rubbing one if he could squeeze it?
